Divide & Conquer and the Trap of Identification

By Bernhard Guenther, January 19, 2018

Divide & Conquer is a term used to describe the ancient game of controlling all sides of a debate/issue/conflict and pitting the human groups involved against one another – not only to manipulate them into acting out in accordance with a specific result in mind, but to create the right emotional “loosh” frequency (energetic ‘food’ to be used as sustenance by hyperdimensional forces) whilst keeping humanity locked within a frequency prison of endlessly-repeating trauma cycles. This model is the basic modus operandi of the hyperdimensional matrix control system that has been working through human civilizations for thousands of years. The masses react mechanically (under the illusion of “free will”) to the problem/reaction/solution stimuli, subjected to interferences and manipulations of the occult forces who exist beyond their five-sensory perceptions while they remain distracted by the shadows projected onto the wall of their endarkened cave.
The very foundation of this Divide & Conquer tactic – established on unseen levels by archonic forces – is established via the programming of humanity with erroneous beliefs and ideologies (which act as the ‘software’ running through the ‘hardware’ of genetic modifications that resulted in the “fall” from our original, fully-accessible DNA activated state), and subliminally intruding upon the human mind through various mechanisms in an attempt to deviate humanity away from truth and conscious evolution (i.e., activating the higher centers/DNA). By accepting these beliefs – by IDENTIFYING with them, especially – and promoting them to the world at large, people are assisting the negative realm agenda out of their own (manipulated) free will. It is a very “simple” (yet cunning) set-up, for most people do not question these beliefs, their thoughts, nor their resulting actions and emotional reactivity. It’s an excellent strategy from the archonic perspective – a “stupendous maneuver” of “the predator that took over humanity”, as Don Juan Matus said:

“In order to keep us obedient and meek and weak, the predators engaged themselves in a stupendous maneuver – stupendous, of course, from the point of view of a fighting strategist. A horrendous maneuver from the point of view of those who suffer it. They gave us their mind!...Through the mind, which, after all, is their mind, the predators inject into the lives of human beings whatever is convenient for them.”

Many other esoteric and shamanic teachings have talked about the same occult force feeding on humanity’s trauma through organized conflict (from interpersonal to international levels). I have explored this topic in-depth in past essays: “Timeline-Reality Split, Frequency Vibration, and the Hidden Forces of Life” and “The Perilous Path Towards Awakening”. The so-called “alien invasion” (an issue that does not entail what many people “assume” it does) has already happened eons ago, and is an on-going operation which lies behind the veil of awareness, outside the scope of our five-sensory perception.

“[...] We have to understand here that the true Negative Realm agenda is to “eat consciousness.” So, this actually prevents an overt “take-over” in literal, physical terms. If an “invasion” was detected, this would mean that the veil would be lifted and all would see the “man behind the curtain” and would be disgusted and turn away. Just as in the “Wizard of Oz,” those Ruby Slippers have to be obtained VERY CAREFULLY!
Gathering the essence is an art of great subtlety! The “negative alien plan” is, in its purest sense, STALKING.

The aim of Stalking is to create a completely controlled artificial environment composed of thoroughly predictable human behaviors - made predictable because they have been programmed to respond to cues of conditioning.

[...]

For centuries these programming signals have been being set up - either because of time travel capabilities, or because of actual historical presence. Various prophets or religious leaders have been influenced to preach, or teach or prophesy philosophies designed to lay a foundation for later take-over - possibly in our present time. [...]

A lot of people think that the “alien invasion scenario” is a ruse concocted by the government to create the impression that there is a forming “threat,” thereby enabling the institution of a New World Order. But, this idea is based on a misrepresentation of the process just described. The important thing to remember is this: there is NOT a “unified conspiratorial activity” going on here in the hierarchy of government. The “divide and conquer” effect is also manifest at this level and suits the alien purposes to a “T.” Such activity at ALL levels is consistent with their program of STALKING, in which confusion and cross-purpose prevents a clear perception on the part of the Stalkees. Yet, at some deep level there may be a direct conspiratorial interaction between the “secret government” and the negative aliens... but it is unlikely that any name of those involved would be recognized by anyone, no matter how “in the know” regarding the subject. These “secret superiors” are just that: SECRET. Any organization you can name, or about which you are AWARE, are merely “outer circles.”

What is the designed objective of this STALKING? The effect of Stalking is sort of like stampeding a herd of cattle. Bit by bit, they are consolidated into a “negative mode” which consists of the idea of “us vs them.” Even though, on the surface, it may seem that this “mode” is positive or STO (Service to Others), (i.e. save the world because it is “wrong” or flawed, or blighted with original sin or whatever) the very fact that it is formed in the “dominator” mode of perceiving salvation “outside,” means that it can more easily be “taken over” body, mind and soul at a level that is “unseen and unseeable.” In other words: Satan CAN and most often DOES appear as an Angel of Light!

[...]

It is in this understanding that we find our way out of the trap. It isn’t easy, but it is a way. The primary object of Negative stalking is to persuade through strongly influenced, but not robotic, behavior patterns, the Free Choice of the targeted CONSCIOUSNESS to align with negative higher-density existence. Because, in the Long Run, the object is the “eating” of functioning units of consciousness by the negative hierarchy, with Free Will intact! It is not good food otherwise!”

– Michael Topper, The Positive/Negative Realms of Higher Densities

The Trap of Identification and Group Consciousness

We can see the matrix strategy of stalking via programming people with religious dogma (any religion, from ‘indigenous’ to Abrahamic…it must also be mentioned that atheism - the other side of the belief coin - is, in fact, another archonic mind control program of reductionist materialism) and corrupted spiritual teachings (as we can see in the distortions offered up by the so-called New Age Movement).

However, many people who can see through the deception on that level are not always aware of how the Divide & Conquer manipulation operates in “less obvious” ways, via “socially accepted” beliefs, ideologies, and institutions – all of which are also installed into our mind-patterns by occult archonic forces, manipulating us like puppets on strings.

To put it bluntly, the moment you identify yourself as a liberal, progressive, conservative, democrat, green, republican, anarchist, libertarian, atheist, christian, buddhist, muslim, etc. and/or identify yourself with any ideology/belief system, be it socio-political (from far left to far right and anything in between; socialism, communism, capitalism, fascism, etc.....any “-ism”) or religious/spiritual dogma (including the religion of government)...if you support/vote for any politician/party...if you identify yourself with a flag, a nation...if you identify yourself with any social, political, religious, spiritual, group/movement/tribe...you are contributing to the ongoing creation process of division, separation, and fragmentation. This process, in turn, fuels the Divide & Conquer frequency – regardless of your well-meaning intentions – for one side/identification/ideology (that you support/consent to) always creates the other ‘controlled opposition’ side, with all its fragmented variations. It’s the game/trap of duality.

“The more importance someone attaches to a determination of her identity, the more she divides herself from the unbounded reality of wholeness. A narrowing attachment to identity creates strife not just within an individual, but in society at large. In his book ‘Identity and Violence’, Amartya Sen argues that the more narrowly people ‘identify’ themselves by race, gender, status, religion, heritage or nationality, the more prone they will be to committing violence.

That makes sense when we understand ‘objective’ identifications as top-down phenomena: ideas about how one should be are imposed onto the self. This is already a form of violence in which idea dominates and silences being. When someone adopts a categorical standard for how a human should be, it becomes all too easy to turn that violence against others – even friends, neighbors or family members. I believe that the most dangerous people are those who feel their ideas about the Present more keenly than they feel the Present itself.”

~ Philip Shepherd

All of these external approaches and conditioned identifications are based on mind and thought – the over-riding male aspect of consciousness (regardless of gender). It cannot see/perceive wholeness – it remains adrift from the present moment, is caught in the linear time trap (past or future), always dissecting, dividing into parts, imposing premature “solutions” to a fragmentized view of the world and reality, mistaking symptoms for causes...blind to both the mighty occult forces (and Nature’s/Divine Will) acting on and through us. It’s a closed loop and a downward spiral, creating more entropy, division and separation.

This head-centric existence is disconnected from the feminine aspect of consciousness that’s rooted deep in the body, which only perceives wholeness (beyond the five senses), interrelationship and true oneness; this Being-ness is fully embodied, not adhering to any external authority/group/movement and their ideas and ideologies of what one “should” do. This ‘receptive/flow’ state is connected to – and ONLY “listens” to – Nature, the Divine, and non-verbal guidance within (which is itself only accessible through partnering with the “eternal Now”, which the mind alone cannot access); it respects the individually-unique expression of the Divine at any given evolutionary stage (level of Being), for “oneness” does not correlate to “the same”....every expression of the Whole is a unique signature of Source Consciousness.

However, the core issue goes beyond a person’s identification with beliefs and ideologies – or rather, how any of these identifications mentioned above might lead to actions/behaviors that are also in alignment with the negative realm agenda (and represent Service To Self motivations).

If you tell others how they “should” live – or try to implement/support a system/ideology with certain rules that everyone “should” obey, or certain lifestyles everyone “should” live by...if you identify with a particular lifestyle (including the identification with/attachment to a certain diet, preaching what people “should” or “shouldn’t” eat, coming from a moral superiority complex ) because you think/believe that will “save” the world or humanity, or is more “spiritually-advanced”....you are caught in the trap of the homogenization of humanity (the craving to make everyone the same). This ideology also displays traits of the martyr/savior complex, which is a trap in itself, especially if you see yourself as “better” than – and thus, look down upon – others (ie., the trap of superiority)...judging people who don’t do as you do (as opposed to discerning how their and your own thoughts/beliefs are curtailing their/your sovereign expansion) ....and in that state of supremacist disassociation, “THE MATRIX HAS YOU”.

When we project onto others what works for us – and try to “make everyone follow the same do/don’t script” – we fall into the aforementioned trap: the Homogenization of Humanity (confusing unity with uniformity). This trap is the underlying agenda of the Matrix, playing out on unseen levels and through a myriad number of STS (Service to Self) behaviorisms that are masquerading as operating on STO (Service to Others) frequencies. We see this mechanism manifesting on a global scale through the roll-out of a socialistic New World Order agenda, but it’s also found embedded within many spiritual and alternative circles/groups, and even in the so-called “truth movement” (whose members, ironically enough, may even be aware of the NWO agenda, albeit on a superficial 3-D level).

On a personal note, I don’t belong to (nor promote) any group, nor do I use any one particular work/teaching/modality as a sole foundation – or “lens” – to look through, nor do I see any one thing as THE answer/way, for that doesn’t exist in my experience...as a result, I don’t attach myself to any “spiritual/esoteric” group/movement. I’ve been there, done that, and have dealt with the resulting trap of unconscious hive/group-mind thinking, which is not obvious at all when you are caught in its web. I learned this the hard way, when I failed to trust/heed my intuition with regards to a personal disagreement I felt with the “group consensus” (based on my own personal experience/intuition/research), which resulted in me not speaking up (based on insecurity, lack of self-love and wounded “need to belong”) so that I wouldn’t be rejected/attacked by the group I belonged to, and identified with.

“Insecurity and anxiety also motivates us to form and join groups. Being a part of a group relieves us of anxiety because it makes us feel like we are not the only ones who feel insecure about a particular thing. We often form groups with individuals who have similar insecurities. Having similar [unconscious] insecurities cause us to have similar desires from the perspective of the internal conflict model...
Thus, the more insecure and anxious we are, the more motivated we are to form and maintain our own groups.”

I see this “cultish” thread weaving through many groups to varying degrees, especially when a group is centered around one particular teaching/source or “awakening modality” that promises “enlightenment”, “DNA activation”, etc. – which results in (unconscious) hierarchy and dogma. It shows itself when group members (mechanically) always agree with each other, creating an “echo chamber” that never sincerely questions the validity of the source/teachings they identify with and follow, but instead take everything as the 100% ‘gospel’ truth. It is also readily apparent when the group founder/leader attacks anyone who doesn’t agree with her/him (or gets triggered easily), with all of the group members jumping on the bandwagon, attacking the “outsider”. These behaviours create and feed the Divide & Conquer frequency.
If there’s one thing I’ve learned on my own path – via experience and working with people one on one for ever a decade – it’s that what works for one person may not work for another, and there is no judgment in that. Anyone who claims that their particular work/teaching is the “best” or “only way” – if there is obvious dogma, claims to “save the world”, etc. – is someone who has been influenced by both Matrix STS thinking and the virus of “homogenization”. These individuals do not understand the vast differences that exist between levels of Being, and the soul lessons awaiting each person on their particular, unique path towards awakening.

“When someone openly regards their own systems of thought as monumentally important, they are divulging a deep crack in their own core. An inner struggle is being played out publicly. Still they insist that they are altruistically devoted to just getting the information out, serving as a conduit for sacred knowledge, helping the global awakening, serving the planetary spirit. Or some shit like that.

Many people put an artificial sealing over their work and research, getting stuck in a tunnel vision of topics they keep focusing on, trying to explain everything through it instead of being truly opened minded and looking at the many other angles of our multifaceted reality. Don’t attach yourself to anything you can’t honorably walk away from. Keep free and flexible. Have the courage to discriminate. Learn to know when you are hearing dogma. Know when you are hearing the shriek of the ego.

The power in you is your uniqueness and individuality. How you see and move in the world is a precious bequest to the divine source from where you came and where you go back to. If you walk around any city, you will see people choosing not to control themselves and therefore they become followers, not independent, not individuals, not pioneers, not explorers. It’s an anti-human way to follow. The biggest threat the establishment has is individuality, people who think for themselves, people who say: no more of this group mentality. I don’t care what they are following. It could be the best yoga, the best spiritual guru, it could be beautiful ancient hindu, german or french texts, whatever. I don’t care. If you are following, you are doing it wrong. The only path is the path of the Individual. That’a what it is all about and what you are here for. There is an esoteric axiom, all untrue things eventually destroy themselves. Empire, as long as “I” get out of the way, is burning itself out and it’s a natural power of the evolutionary process. In mystical studies you’ll find that this has happened before. It has happened periodically over millions of years, not thousands, but millions of years. And the message is always, look humans, you are super powerful. It’s divine will, a metaphysical spark of creation within you, call it what you wish. To be here is to grow and explore as an Individual. If we are not doing that, we give that power away, we surrender it, and there are other beings in this world who will gladly take that and do something else with that. And that’s how empire rises.”

– Neil Kramer

Beyond understanding (and seeing) how this archonic mind manipulation virus is blatantly working through the machinations of consensus reality cult-ure, the awakening process involves grasping how these programs can arise through ourselves in everyday life situations – especially via group identification (in all its forms and variations). This is an important key in establishing sovereignty, as vital as energetically-freeing ourselves from “external” control. There can be no true sovereignty as long as we remain slaves to our own mind-loops and thoughts, chained as they are to the beliefs, group-think, and ideologies which we find ourselves identifying with.

We mistake unity for uniformity. There are vastly-different levels of Being that exist within the seven billion people currently residing on Earth. ALL humans are a fractal expression of the One/Divine (including those whom one might consider “evil”), whose lives are playing themselves out on a co-creative stage. “We” are being pushed by the Divine force to let go of these illusory identifications we take so much pride in attaching a sense of self to – and, in doing so, truly making a courageous choice in evolving towards a completely different state of consciousness/Being...not merely a shift, but a quantum leap
This is not going to happen overnight, let alone in our “lifetime” nor in the near “future”. It’s a slow and tedious process, for the resistance contained in humanity’s lower nature (maintained and fed by occult forces) is strong. However, the more we hold onto these mind constructs/identifications – and operate/live from them, without any sincere internal effort to become conscious transducers for Divine Will – the “harder” we make it on both ourselves and the rest of the world...again, this is the case regardless of our well-meaning intentions.

It will get more intense and chaotic as the journey continues, and we have seen nothing yet. Usually, people do not question their ingrained beliefs – nor engage in sincere self-work – until they suffer, and there are vastly-different lessons for each and every individual to take on-board.

During this Time of Transition, the Light and Dark are increasing exponentially in parallel patterns. The Awakening process does not consist of a linear upward movement which bequeaths only love, bliss, and peace; rather, it is a spiral, expanding in all directions, up and down, in and out, bringing awareness to All That Is. You cannot reach the light without having fully explored the dark, for all is coming forth to be acknowledged – to come into the light, brought into awareness, and to be made conscious. It is what the path of conscious evolution implies.

“The higher one rises, the farther one is pulled down. Evolution does not move higher and higher, into an ever more heavenly heaven, but deeper and deeper. Each evolutionary cycle closes a little lower, a little nearer to the Center where the supreme High and Low, heaven and earth, will finally meet....The more Light [the seeker] possesses, the more darkness he/she uncovers.”

– Satprem

“No tree, it is said, can grow to heaven unless its roots reach down to hell.”

– Carl Jung
None can reach heaven who has not passed through hell.”
– Sri Aurobindo

The Bigger Picture and Mind Trap

The potential for an “awakening” has never been greater, yet at the same time, the potential for distraction and deception has also increased (especially with the dawn of transhumanism), for the occult hostile forces would never relinquish their grip on a food source so easily. The ‘dramas’ will continue to build up in intensity until “we” – or a certain fraction of humanity – can/will transcend this dualistic fear-based mutant mind-matrix (via esoteric self-work, acting as embodied frequency anchors of the Divine Force).

Yet, this opposition of “dark vs. light” also serves as a teaching-function, and creates the necessary friction to ignite the alchemical fire required for the evolution of consciousness. All there is, exists as lessons. This is the whole “purpose” of duality (hence “evil” serves a teaching function, as it manifests as part of the One as well). This 3rd Density existence is an intermediate stage/phase, the threshold to cross (“many are called, few choose to answer the call”) before we become self-realized, soul-individualized beings with a fully-activated genetic birthright to explore…transcending even entropy and death itself.

But this is a highly individual process, different for each soul to experience. We all have our unique path and process, and no externally-delivered mind solution will speed it up nor bring radical/true change (rather, it’s more like changing the tapestry of the (invisible) prison surroundings instead of breaking out of the cage altogether). Oftentimes our choices will simply feed and support the reality people are trying to fight against (with all of their focus centered upon external “fixing” processes), for they perceive an “error” in creation, trying to get rid of the “other side” – as if “God” or the Divine or Source made a mistake.

The Inner creates/reflects the Outer (not to be mistaken with the New Age distortion of “Reality Creation”). All of the perceived “chaos” we see on the world stage (including “Climate Change”) is a reflection of who we are inside: fragmented, separated, contradictory, lost, confused, afraid, reactive, and numerous other unconscious shadow aspects we project externally… identified with the illusory conditioned personality we “think” we are, caught up in its beliefs, attachments, identifications, biases, conditioned/programed desires, and projections…..sleepwalking, dreaming to be awake.

Disillusionment is a painful but necessary process, for the old needs to die before the new can be born. We are in the birth canal, awaiting the delivery of a new humanity…..and any birthing event is simultaneously painful and beautiful …ask any mother! However, “we” still have a long way to go in this culmination, even though it’s all right here, right now.

Welcome to the paradox of it all – the mind is a powerful ally for growth and expansion, yet our thoughts will never, ever understand (or grasp) the expansive nature of our human life; they are, in fact, a hindrance to the ‘allowing’ process, for mind is the “doorway” through which occult hostile forces control and manipulate us.

“It is clear that Mind has not been able to change human nature radically. You can go on changing human institutions infinitely and yet the imperfection will break through all your institutions. It must be another power that can not only resist but overcome that downward pull. Even if our ideas reached life in their pure form, they would still be incapable of creating anything other than a military order—or perhaps a holy, comfortable, religious order, but an order all the same, because the Mind can only devise systems and seek to confine everything in them. The reason of man struggling with life becomes either an empiric or a doctrinaire. It seized upon a bit of truth, one drop of divine illumination, and makes it a universal law; it constantly confuses unity with uniformity.

Even when it is capable of understanding the need for diversity, it is practically incapable of implementing it, because it only knows how to deal with what is invariable and finite, while the world is teeming with an infinite variety. Ideas themselves are partial and insufficient: not only have they a very partial triumph, but if their success were complete, it would still disappoint, because they are not the whole truth of life and therefore cannot secure govern and perfect life. Life escapes from the formulas and systems which our reason labors to impose on it; it proclaims itself too complex, too full of infinite potentialities to be tyrannized over by the arbitrary intellect of man.

The root of the difficulty is this that at the very basis of all our life and existence, internal and external, there is something on which the intellect can never lay a controlling hand, the Absolute, the Infinite. Behind everything in life there is an Absolute, which that thing is seeking after in its own way; everything finite is striving to express an infinite which it feels to be its real truth. Moreover, it is not only each class, each type, each tendency in Nature that is thus impelled to strive after its own variation.

Thus there is not only an Absolute, an Infinite in itself which governs its own expression in many forms and tendencies, but there is also a principle of infinite potentiality and variation quite baffling to the reasoning intelligence; for the reason deals successfully only with the settled and the finite. In man this difficulty reaches its acme. For not only is mankind unlimited in potentiality, not only is each of its powers and tendencies seeking after its own absolute in its own way and therefore naturally restless under any rigid control by the reason; but in each man their degrees, methods, combinations vary, each man belongs not only to the common humanity, but to the Infinite in himself and is therefore unique. It is because this is the reality of our existence that the intellectual reason and the intelligent will cannot deal with life as its sovereign.”

– Sri Aurobindo